Introducing Mr. Tim Euler, Head of School

What Does It Look Like?

Anytime you go to buy a big ticket item, like a house, the first question many people ask is; what does it look like? Have you ever replied with, it does not matter? Of course it matters. It is the same reason why we have mirrors in our bathrooms, we want to make sure we are presentable and have a good appearance. We spend hours each week worried about what our homes, our bodies, our cars, and all other areas of our lives look like. We spend money, resources, and hire people to clean, paint, and prep the material items in our lives. How much time have you spent wondering what your grandchildren will look like 10, 15, 20 years from now?

Grandchildren? Yes, that is what each of us are raising. Our natural response is that we are focused on our children and what they look like spiritually, physically, and socially; but if we only think short term then we have completely missed the commandment given to us in Psalm 78.

My people, hear my instruction; listen to what I say. I will declare wise sayings; I will speak mysteries from the past—things we have heard and known and that our fathers have passed down to us. We must not hide them from their children, but must tell a future generation the praises of the LORD, His might, and the wonderful works He has performed. He established a testimony in Jacob and set up a law in Israel, which He commanded our fathers to teach to their children so that a future generation—children yet to be born—might know. They were to rise and tell their children so that they might put their confidence in God and not forget God's works, but keep His commands. Then they would not be like their fathers, a stubborn and rebellious generation, a generation whose heart was not loyal and whose spirit was not faithful to God.

(Psalm 78:1-8, Holman)

We are commanded to raise our children in a manner that establishes a Godly heritage for future generations to come. This is exactly why you invest in Cambridge Christian School. Our faculty and staff partner with you to educate your children so that when they are old they will not depart from the biblical training they have received. I speak to parents often that ask, "Why do I sacrifice and pay the tuition I pay?" My response is simple; "You are investing into generations to come." Have you ever considered what a powerful racecar would look like with no steering wheel? That's the picture of a child whose academic education lacks the guidance of faith and character. At Cambridge, we invest in training children through a biblical worldview that will ground them in biblical principles long after they have graduated high school. This is what you are investing in daily when you send your children out the door for school.

So yes, you are raising grandchildren. Now think about what you want your grandchildren to look like? Do you want them to know Jesus? Do you want them to have values and integrity? Do you want them to be active members of society? Do you want them to have a heart, body, and mind to serve Jesus? If your answer is yes, then you can honestly say, "I am paying forward!"

Serving Him and You,

Striking a Balance at CCS

Rigor, Relevance and Relationships is a catch-phrase that has gained momentum in the educational realm in recent years. Initially, in state school systems, the focus was on rigor and relevance. More recently, though, even the public schools are coming to terms with the importance of relationships in the educational process. Research over the last five years has confirmed that rigor and relevance alone do not provide the optimal learning experience for students. While once frowned upon, relationships are now largely recognized as required.

In the Christian school, and certainly at Cambridge Christian School (or so I am told), relationships have always been emphasized. Our teachers seek to forge a bond with our students wherein a mutual trust exists that promotes individual mentoring and discipleship. Teachers at CCS know and love our students beyond the curricular requirements. Our teachers, and the lives that they lead, represent the most dynamic portion of our curriculum. They are the "living curriculum." This is why it is so critical that each teacher's most important relationship is the one with Christ. The relationships that our staff develops with students, families, and each other, while imperfect, have been a strength of our program and will continue to be emphasized.

In the Christian school arena, however, rigor and relevance are, in some cases, afforded far less attention than should be the case. Often, Christian school programs offering less than excellence in these areas identify budgetary constraints as the cause. Others go so far as to dismiss secular successes and voice resistance to any level of participation. In reality, acknowledging that the Common Core, for example, possesses some qualities that could enhance the rigor and relevance of our Christian school program does not constitute "bowing down" to the state school system, nor does it dictate compromise of the Biblical standard we are committed to uphold at CCS.

Rigor and relevance are often perceived to be lacking in Christian schools. In many cases, this perception is accurate. The cycle is vicious: funding is inadequate, substandard teachers are hired and retained, generic, outdated resources are adopted, technology is inaccessible and /or ignored, standards are non-existent, and unprepared students are graduated. Rigor is hit or miss, and relevance is abandoned. In many cases, these schools turn out young adults with a dynamic, growing faith that will guide them through the challenges they face. While this is the most important thing, to provide this alone is to do an injustice to our students and their families. Further, the tragedy is that some of these graduates will "settle" for serving in full-time ministry not because they are called, but instead, because it is one of the few pursuits for which they are "qualified" due to the lack of rigor they have experienced. We want our graduates in full-time ministry, but not as a fall back plan. We desire to graduate young adults whose lives are classified as full-time ministry regardless of their professional pursuits, whether they occur in the court room, the doctor's office, or on the mission field.

Cambridge Christian School is committed to providing a balance of rigor, relevance and relationships. Balance here will be defined as pursuing all three with equal vigor and aggression. Exposing our students and families to the truth of Christ will always be our most important purpose as a Christian school, but that does not have to happen at the expense of offering an excellent educational product. None of these will be sacrificed at CCS.

Exposing our students and families to the truth of Christ will always be our most important purpose as a Christian school, but that does not have to happen at the expense of offering an excellent educational product.

Editor's Notes

New beginnings

Change is a scary word for many people. Routine and comfort are things we cherish and give us relief in a frenetic world. This school year, as all others, promises to have some changes and some new beginnings. It can be stressful but it is also an opportunity for us to grow as parents, faculty and as a school community.

In this issue we will highlight all the wonderful people and happenings at Cambridge Christian School. On the opening pages you were introduced to our new Head of School, Mr. Tim Euler, and his dreams for the future. It will remind us that despite the constant change life provides, the God whose word this school is built on is constant. He is the same yesterday, today, tomorrow and through eternity.

Cambridge Christian is now entering its 49th school year. We have seen many changes over the years and continue to face economic uncertainties. Yet together we continue to build a legacy that is meaningful in this world and the next. While we celebrate the wonderful people, current and past, who have contributed so much to the heart and soul of this ministry, we know that our continued success depends on building a foundation that stays true to the one who does not change and does not falter. As you enter this school year, may you be blessed by His promises and excited about all the wonderful things in store for you and your family at Cambridge Christian School. Goooooo Lancers!

Leadership Development

Ed Kobel, CEO DeBartolo Group

Richard Blackaby spoke to parents, students and friends of CCS at our leadership dinner in May. He shared his personal struggles as a parent, shared stories of his children and inspired a whole new generation of Christian leaders.

Student Leadership Institute

"If our heart is right with God, there is nothing He cannot do through us. If our hearts are not right, it matters not what secular leadership skills we possess."

Dr. Richard Blackaby, The Inspired Leader

The Leadership Academy, now called Student Leadership Institute (SLI), was developed to create an opportunity for our junior and seniors to meet and hear the testimony of Christian leaders throughout Tampa Bay. They speak with our students to help them understand how their faith integrates with their personal life and their business life. It is an incredible experience to hear these leaders explain how God is part of their business strategy, how they maintain a prayer life and how He has helped them through their trials and triumphs both personally and professionally.

This past year our speakers have been:

■ Ed Kobel, CEO DeBartolo Group.

Mr. DeBartolo runs a multi-million dollar real estate development organization. He is also Chairman of the Board of Lifework Leadership, a biblical based leadership training program for Executive Officers. Ed serves on the board of Directors for Faith Tampa Bay, an organization working to meet the transformation needs of the Tampa Bay area. In addition, Edward also sits on the Board of Directors for Meet the Need and Operation Light Force.

■ Jay Lippy-President, Impact Tampa Bay.

This is an organization which is about Discipleship Through Leadership Development. Their purpose is to train, serve, and increase the spiritual, ethical, civil, and social well-being of the Tampa Bay Area and exercise their responsibilities of leadership within the confines of these four areas. He is also an author, speaker, ICCA Life Coach, Past-President of Rotary Club of Tampa and Executive Director of Lifework Leadership Tampa Bay.

■ Dave Dunkel-David L. Dunkel is Chairman and CEO of Kforce, the leading staffing services firm formerly known as Romac International. He has been a long time member of C12, an organization that helps Christian business owners and CEOs achieve God's best through executive peer forums, focused curriculum, and one-on-one coaching. He is also an alumnus of Lifework Leadership Tampa Bay.

■ Richard Hayes-Richard William Hayes is the CEO and Managing Partner of Digital

Lightbridge, LLC. Hayes founded Digital Lightbridge in 2001 and remains faithful to its mission of helping

Richard Hayes, CEO of Digital Lightbridge, LLC

companies achieve their business objectives through strategic marketing solutions. He is also the founder and publisher of TwoTen Magazine and alumnus of Lifework Leadership.

■ Dr. Richard

Blackaby-Son of Dr. Henry Blackaby, Richard was our keynote speaker at our Leadership celebration dinner in May. He is the current President of Blackaby Ministries International and is a noted author and international speaker on Christian life and spiritual leadership. He has most recently authored "The Inspired Leader" and co-authored "Experiencing God: The Revised Edition" with his father.

As a leader preparing school, we plan to grow this program to include discipleship and career opportunities for our students upon graduation from college. Mr. Euler is committed to leadership development and will continue working with Christian leaders throughout Tampa Bay to further develop SLI in the years to come.

GODSPELL

Based On The Gospel According to Matthew

...Steals the show!

Every spring Fine Arts Director Matt Stenberg takes his extra helping of Wheaties and prepares for the familiar and frenetic schedule that comes with making a musical.

Practices start in March and roll full speed ahead as performers practice into the wee hours and volunteers help with choreography, costumes, scenery and makeup.

This year's choice of Godspell surely did not disappoint. It was a treat for the senses!

There were bursts of color, scintillating dance numbers, incredible guitar riffs from the live rock band and performances that wowed the sold out crowds that have grown to include those outside of the CCS family. Don Wiley is a friend from outside of Cambridge Christian School who was amazed at the performances. "I cannot believe this much talent comes out of a small Christian school. It completely blew me away. The gospel message was incredible. I laughed, I cried and sat in awe of this wonderful group of kids. I will definitely bring others with me next year."

The musicals at Cambridge Christian School are a cherished event. The talent on display never disappoints as the gym is transformed into Broadway for one weekend a year. If you are new to the school or have never been to a show, put this on your calendar as a must-do. It's a great evening full of fellowship and entertainment the whole family can enjoy!

SAVE THE DATE! This year's musical will be held on April 25th and 26th 2014.

Writers' Conference hits the mark! Inspires future writers and leaders.

The middle school hosted its first ever Writers' Conference. Speakers included local writers and Editors from the Tampa Tribune and ESPN as well as book authors and several CCS alumni. Students spent the day moving from class to class learning how to improve their writing skills, all about careers in writing and gaining inspiration to become great writers. Our wonderful presenters and topics this year were:

Mr. Glen Gonzalez – Father, Smith Communication Partners, Writer and Author

"Weird and Wonderful Words" – A plethora of old words, new words, weird words, words for things you didn't know had words plus some random facts about the English language.

Dr. Paul Enns – Grandfather, Pastor and Author

"Heaven Revealed" – "HOW TO PUBLISH A BOOK." Why is this book necessary? Who would read it? What is it saying that hasn't been said?

Mr. Brett McMurphy – Father, Sports Writer, ESPN

"What is life like as a sports writer and ESPN commentator?"

Miss Keaton Groves – Senior, Cambridge Christian School

"Creative Writing led by someone who loves to write!" – Everything from Short Stories, to Poetry and More... How to create ideas for fiction, How to make your stories flow, How to generate ideas...

Miss Marie Miller – Fifth Grade Teacher, Cambridge Christian School

"Journaling!" – Get ideas on how to journal, what journaling can do for you... how to Love journaling!

Miss Olivia Muenter - CCS Alumus'11, UF Student studying in Holland

"Fashion Writing" – Combine two loves, fashion and writing. Start a blog, use it as a platform to get internships, show experience and make connections in journalism and writing no matter where you are in the world.

Mr. J.P. Peterson – Father, Longtime TV sports anchor and radio host having worked at NBC Sports, New Channel 8 and CBS Sports Radio

"Writing for TV, Radio and the Web" – An introduction to writing scripts for TV news, radio and web blogs. Writing for the electronic media is different than writing novels, screenplays and shorts. Many of the fundamentals are the same but the execution is pressure packed and exhilarating!

Mr. Tony Valdes – Teacher, Writer

"Customizing Your Writing Process:" Writing is not a fixed process like a mathematical formula; purpose, audience, and personality influence a writer differently each time he or she sits down to write. This means that a writer's process is as unique as a fingerprint.

Our wonderful presenters.

Ms. Karen McAllister - Mother, Lead Editor, TBO.com

Karen McAllister spoke about her role at TBO.com, the website for the Tampa Tribune. She leads a team of editors and web producers who produce breaking news throughout the day for multiple platforms – the website, mobile products and social media. Her session included information about the current state of digital newsrooms and the future of news media.

Mr. Chris Ingram – Father, Communications Consultant, 411 Communications

"Like to write by writing what you like"

Mr. Matt VanKleek-High School English Teacher, CCS and Author

"Gardener or Architect?" How do pieces of the puzzle come together to create a story?

Mr. Derek Hale -Author, "Dinwiddie Dunn and his Bowlegged Sons"

"Serendipity in Character Development" included free flow writing to harvest ideas and exercises of combining random adjectives, nouns, and actions for initiate character ideas.

Miss Kelsey Hawley – Student, Flager University, CCS Alumnus '12

"Illustrating and the Writing Process." What is it like to provide illustrations for the writing process? How does all that work together?

Mrs. Krista McGee – Teacher and Author

"So You Want to Write a Book" – Go from the beginning of the fiction writing process all the way through publication. It's an exciting journey!

Mr. Zack Carter – Senior, Cambridge Christian School

"Improve your writing level for high school." Led by someone who knows how to put together a well-developed paper...Academic Writings – High School, Organization and thought process involved in producing top academic papers. How to dissect questions, How to conduct research, Mental steps before writing, How to keep a voice but stay professional, and how to make an impact with your writing.

Writing Laboratory is required in 7th, 8th and 9th grade as part of their everyday curriculum. Upper School Principal, Mrs. Beverly Coney, feels that writing is not only part of our academic life but also helps us be successful leaders in the future. "It is our goal at Cambridge Christian School to develop strong Christian leaders who are also sound thinkers. Those thinkers then become transformational leaders in our world. As students develop as writers they are able to work out inconsistencies in their writing, and therefore, become much stronger thinkers. We are devoted to helping our students become who Christ intended them to be. Our recognition of the importance of writing is an integral piece of that development both academically and spiritually." Thank you to all our speakers and students for making our first Writers' Conference such a success.

SERVICE CHARACTER EXCELLENCE

The mission of Cambridge Christian School is to... glorify God in all that we do; to develop our students to their full potential in all areas; to provide a high level of academic, athletic and artistic achievement; to instill a strong sense of character; and to serve our community.

Cambridge Christian School is to demonstrate excellence at every artistic involvement; to develop the local and global community.

"We are academically excellent because we are a college preparatory school and we do a great job at it. However, what sets us apart is that a biblical worldview is interwoven into everything we do. Our goal is to graduate thinking Christians who are prepared to go out and transform the world."

Mrs. Beverly Coney, Upper School Principal

Excellence in Academics

Congratulations to the class of 2013!

This year's graduating class was offered over $3.3 million dollars in scholarships and acceptances to 56 different colleges and universities in 17 states. Included are 4 athletic scholarships, 1 thespian scholarship and 1 music scholarship. Prayers and well wishes go out to all of our wonderful graduates!

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Headmaster's List

It's hard enough to get on Headmaster's List. You have to earn all A's with no A minuses. So imagine the effort and dedication required to get on Headmaster's List three out of the four quarters! This year we had 11 students from lower school who were able to have lunch and an afternoon of bowling with the Headmaster. We also had 17 students from the upper school that earned a limo ride and lunch!

Congratulations to all these students for their hard work and dedication to excellence!

Excellence in Athletics

Athletic Hall of Fame The start of a new tradition

Last year was the Cambridge Christian School Inaugural Athletic Hall of Fame Class of 2012. Inducted were Frank Taylor ('92), Kristen Taylor Berger ('96), Melissa Tapia ('97), John Beckel (2000) - also honored was the State Championship Softball Teams of '97 and '98.

This year's 2nd class will be honored at the Hall of Fame Breakfast on Friday November 1, 2013. They will also be recognized at the Homecoming Football Game that night at 7 pm.

Athletic Director Jay Bowen plans to make the Athletic Hall of Fame a cherished tradition. "I enjoy honoring these great athletes and the legacy of excellence they represent. My plan is not only to continue this event but to grow it in the years to come."

ALL PRO DAD

AllProDad.com

All Pro Dad's Day is a simple idea with a profound impact. It's a one-hour monthly breakfast held before school where fathers and their children meet with other dads and kids in the Fellowship Hall. During this time, they discuss a wide range of family topics, spend time together, create fun memories, and are equipped with resources to strengthen their relationship. Coach and father of 9, Tony Dungy, helped launch the All Pro Dad's program back in 1997 and is still very much involved in the program by donating his time and writing an exclusive blog on the All Pro Dad website.

This year Cambridge dad and Director of Marketing at Family First, George Woods, has seen about 120 dads and kids meet the first Friday of every month from 7am-7:45 in the Fellowship Hall. He has seen dads grow with their children and with one another. "The purpose of these meetings is that dads make time on their calendars to spend time with their kids and grow closer to them in the process. The other by-product is that dads connect with other dads. It is wonderful to see relationships develop from this program. It is so valuable for dads to have other like-minded dads to connect with now and in the years to come.

Memories are created and when you look back you will find that this time will be more important than you think to your kids."

Cambridge All Pro Dad Eric Stiehl couldn't agree more. "My kids won't allow me to miss a meeting, they love it so much! It has been a great experience for all us and one that I encourage other dads to try."

Brett McMurphy with daughter Chesney enjoying their All Pro Dad day.

For more information you can visit the All Pro Dad website at www.allprodad.com and plan on making memories with us this school year.

Raising a Modern Day Knight

Coach Steve Ater and his sons Scott and Troy at the knighting ceremony the focus has been on dads of middle school football players but is being opened up this year to varsity players and any father and son of middle school age or older who wish to participate. To date, over 50 dads and their sons have gone through the class. It is a five week program that ends with a ceremony where dads commit to their boys to raise them as modern day knights. The principals are biblically based and include the definition of manhood:

As a leader preparing school, our mission is to partner with parents and provide the tools and information needed for your child's growth, both physically and spiritually. More importantly, we encourage putting those tools into action. The Modern Day Knight program is a wonderful example of this and will create memories with your son that will last a lifetime.

For more information on this program and how you can participate please contact Steve Ater at sater@cambridge-christian.com.

Middle School Football at Cambridge Christian School has become a cherished rite-of-passage for so many young men. Learning about football is almost secondary as the program's main focus is to help everyone grow in their faith and character. Part of that growth is facilitated through the "Raising A Modern Day Knight" class that follows the book of the same name. The Middle School Football program has facilitated this class for the past three years. Led by Varsity Defensive Coordinator Steve Ater,

1. Reject Passivity
2. Accept Responsibility
3. Lead Courageously
4. Expect the Greater Reward

The goals of this program are to:

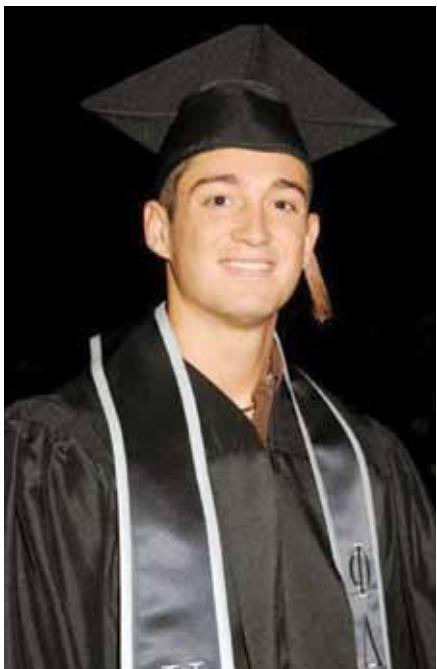

1. Give our dads the true definition of manhood
2. Teach and discuss different ways to teach our boys to be true godly men
3. Give our dads a map to follow throughout their boy's life in order to be purposeful in instilling these principles
4. Show the boys that their dads are committed to raising them to be godly men
5. Help build community among the dads at CCS

ALUMNI FEATURE!

Proud parents Mark and Anna Eicholtz.

As a Cambridge School graduate in the class of 2004, I have been given both a quality education and a strong Christian foundation. From my parents and my teachers, I learned how to deepen my relationship with God and grow my appreciation for God's Word. Yet it was only recently that I fully realized the privilege we have to read God's Word in our own language.

Did you know that there are approximately 200 million people in the world today without any of the Bible in their language? They do not have even a single book of the Bible or an audio or video recording, such as The Jesus Film. My wife Katie and I are excited to be joining Wycliffe Bible Translators to help change that. We will be serving in Papua New Guinea amongst over 800 different language groups to help give God's Word to people who don't have it yet.

But we're not Bible translators and we're not your typical "missionaries". I'm an airplane pilot and mechanic while Katie is a project coordinator. As a pilot, I will be a critical link in the Bible translation process by transporting missionaries and supplies, sometimes even saving lives through emergency medical flights. It was at Cambridge that I first learned about missionary flying. While attending there, Wycliffe's partner organization, JAARS, brought their helicopter and landed it on the soccer field. What an exciting picture of the Kingdom of God: missionaries, pilots, mechanics, project coordinators, and many others using their specific talents and abilities to answer the call of getting the Word of God to the nations.

As I reflect on how God brought us to Wycliffe, I am thankful for a school like Cambridge Christian School where the Word of God is taught and lived out in the lives of students, teachers, and parents. Even here in the United States, our actions today can change the world tomorrow in places like Papua New Guinea. God has placed each of us in a unique role to further His kingdom. What role are you playing?

Josh Eicholtz

Josh and Katie are preparing for full-time service with Wycliffe. Wycliffe is a faith mission and we depend on the prayers and generosity of people like you to enable us to serve in Papua New Guinea. ## Movie on the Field

Thanks to all of you that came out and supported our first Movie on the Field. Families brought chairs, blankets and snacks and enjoyed fellowship and a movie on a surprisingly crisp fall evening. We will be hosting a movie night again this year on Saturday, November 9th so mark your calendars!

Pasta for Pennies

Cambridge Christian is one of this organization's top performing schools, this year raising over $2600 to help cure childhood cancers. We have adopted this program for over 5 years and have enjoyed watching students in preschool through 6th grade save their pennies and encourage others to do the same. Thank you so much for your support of this very worthy cause.

Philanthropy in Action / Lancer Legacy

Thank you to everyone who participated in last years "Who Campaign" to benefit the Lancer Legacy Fund. As a result of your generous gifts to technology, all our teachers are now equipped with new laptops. Many were able to also receive projectors, Elmos document cameras, SMARTBoards and additional student computers for the classroom. In addition, we received computer donations that allowed us to upgrade and expand our lower and upper school computer labs.

This is a wonderful beginning to our technology upgrades. Mr. Euler will continue to make technology a priority in the coming years to keep up with our ever changing environment and provide the best tools needed to assist teachers and enhance learning for students. He says, "The vision at Cambridge is to provide students with the skills needed in the 21st century. In order to train students, upgraded technology is essential. Thank you to those that gave and if technology is a passion for you please consider a gift. Through out this year you will hear about more technology initiatives. Please plan now on actively participating in making your child's education the best it can be."

Save the dates!

Vision Night,
Tuesday Nov. 12

The Partnering for Today and Tomorrow Capital Campaign will have its official launch in the Fall of 2013. Goals will be to increase funding towards technology, academics and fine arts. We look forward to sharing more about the details at the Vision Night in November. Together, we will work towards building a better and brighter future for CCS.

Thanks!
